Foundation Exceeds $500,000 Goal for Children's Center

Thank you for caring about our kids! The Chilton Medical Center Foundation is pleased to report that the Major Gift Initiative for the new Children's Center at Chilton has exceeded its $500,000 goal. The one-year fund drive was launched in January 2015 to support this pivotal $4 million project, which is set to transform the hospital's delivery of pediatric services.

"We're astounded by the outpouring of support from our loyal community of donors," stated Amy Hershman, Foundation Trustee and Chair of the Major Gift Initiative. "Our success would not have been possible without the heart-felt generosity of area residents, along with charitable donations from foundations, corporations, hospital employees and other benefactors."

The Children's Center at Chilton will pioneer a new approach to pediatric care by combining the hospital's Pediatric Emergency Department and Pediatric Inpatient Unit in one state-of-the-art facility. Among the first of its kind in New Jersey, the unique, child-friendly space will provide a nurturing, comforting environment for kids as well as a single team of pediatric experts to care for all children admitted to Chilton.

With funding now complete, we look forward to the project's official groundbreaking scheduled for 2016.

A Message From...

The President

The holiday season has come and gone, but Chilton Medical Center has far more to celebrate. As we embark upon our third year with Atlantic Health System and its Trusted Network of Caring™, Chilton continues to honor its heritage of caring while building a stronger, healthier future for our communities.

In this issue of Foundation Focus, we highlight Chilton's commitment to providing area residents with a lifetime of compassionate, state-of-the-art care. Thanks to your philanthropic support, our new Children's Center is poised to introduce an entirely new approach to pediatric services while Chilton pioneers the latest, most promising medical advancements. The following pages spotlight just a few of these innovations – including breakthroughs in the diagnosis and treatment of heart and vascular disease, new cancer-fighting therapies and the addition of internationally renowned radiation oncologists to Chilton's team of skilled specialists. We also share strides in the delivery of senior services, as Chilton opens a medical facility on the campus of Cedar Crest retirement village and revitalizes the concept of community-based health care.

In 2016, we look forward to your ongoing partnership as we embrace new opportunities for expanding Chilton's continuum of services and improving the health and well-being of the many families we serve.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy and prosperous New Year.

Alan Lieber
President, Chilton Medical Center

The Chief Development Officer

The Chilton Medical Center Foundation values each and every gift that comes through our doors. From time to time, our staff is particularly touched by a donation that is uniquely inspiring, unexpected – and sometimes bestowed by an individual we've never even met.

Chilton Medical Center received a $2.2 million bequest from the late Sonia Neill, a longtime resident of Pompton Plains. Over the years, Sonia developed a strong connection to Chilton, but it wasn't until her passing that we learned of her gift to Chilton's Collins Pavilion. As it turned out, her humility in life was ultimately outshined by her extraordinary generosity – and her vision of impacting the health of future generations. We hope you'll enjoy our tribute to Sonia in this edition of Foundation Focus.

To our great fortune, Sonia's charitable stewardship has been complemented by the benevolence of many other donors and volunteers.

Most recently, your contributions propelled the Children's Center fundraising initiative, helping the Foundation exceed its $500,000 goal. Your gifts also fueled the success of our annual events, which attracted more participants and raised more money in 2015 than any other year in the Foundation's history.

Thank you for making these accomplishments possible – and for making a difference. Your philanthropic dedication keeps Chilton on the forefront of health care for all who live and work in our communities.

Joan Beloff
Chief Development Officer

Q&A

with Phillip Devadan, MD

Phillip Devadan, MD, serves as Medical Director of Chilton's Pediatric Emergency Department as well as the clinical champion for its new Children's Center, which is scheduled to open in 2016. Among peers and colleagues, he's regarded as a highly skilled, board certified pediatrician specializing in emergency medicine. Out in the community, however, he's simply Dr. Devadan – a familiar, trusted physician who loves caring for kids (and saving lives, too).

Q. After studying abroad and training in New York City, why did you establish roots at a community hospital? Why Chilton?

A. After my fellowship at Mt. Sinai, I was planning to head back home [to Ohio] when I met a few doctors from Chilton. They asked me to create a Pediatric Emergency Department for this growing community, and it was the best thing I ever did. We started small – open 4 p.m. to midnight, weeknights only – but quickly expanded to accommodate the needs of area families. Thirteen years later, Chilton operates an around-the-clock, state-of-the-art pediatric emergency room that is staffed and equipped to handle everything from fractures to trauma.

Q. How has Chilton's Pediatric Emergency Department changed and improved over the years?

A. When we opened our doors, we treated about 5,000 kids annually. Since then our volume has tripled. Today, Chilton's Pediatric Emergency Department treats more than 15,000 children, from newborns all the way up to kids under the age of 18 – and each one is seen by a pediatric emergency doctor within 20 minutes of arrival. Our capacity and capabilities have increased with the community's population, while the quality of care has remained consistently high. In fact, according to industry benchmarks, Chilton's Pediatric Emergency Department ranks in the 99th percentile of hospitals nationwide for patient satisfaction.

Q. Tell us about the new Children's Center. How will it transform the delivery of care for pediatric patients at Chilton?

A. Children are not little adults, so it is important that we consider their specialized needs and isolate them from other patients. Our new Children's Center will be among the first of its kind in northern New Jersey, combining the hospital's pediatric services in a single, child-friendly space. Chilton plans to build a 4,500 square foot facility to house our Pediatric Emergency Department and Inpatient Pediatric Unit, which means that all children will be treated by the same doctors, nurses and staff. This hybrid model promotes continuity of care, along with healing and recovery. It's the wave of the future... and shows that Chilton understands that pediatrics is a true subspecialty.

Q. Will the Children's Center offer any additional pediatric services?

A. Yes. Patients soon will have access to Child Life Specialists who are focused on creating a better hospital experience for children and their families. As experts in child development and an integral part of our medical team, they'll offer emotional and social support, therapeutic activities, coping strategies and education. Recently, we also introduced a Creative Arts Therapy Program to help kids manage their stress through music, art and self-expression. Both of these services are terrific additions to Chilton's comprehensive continuum of pediatric care.

Q. What do you find most gratifying about your work at Chilton?

A. The kids! I love taking care of children and watching them grow. My patients recognize me in the grocery store, and often know me by name. They visit me in the hospital, not just when they're sick but also when they're well. Some have even gone on to pursue their own health care careers. Three or four have graduated from medical school, others are physician assistants and at least one of my former patients is interested in nursing. It is gratifying to think about how many kids I've helped...and to know that I've had a meaningful impact on their lives.

Why I Give

Home, Sweet Home

Pompton Lakes Resident Gives Generously to Chilton

Sinikka Sarro was born and raised in the Republic of Finland, where she enjoyed a wonderful childhood. But aspirations fueled her desire to travel. In the late 1960s, as a young woman, Sarro visited the United States to master the English language, advance her education and see the world.

She began her journey in search of opportunity, but ultimately found a home.

Interestingly, Sarro's first experience abroad was sponsored by a Finnish clothing company, after she won a local contest. First prize was a trip to the United States, where Sarro stayed with a gracious, welcoming family in Rye, New York. The nineteen-year-old college student was immediately smitten by their warmth and hospitality, which inspired her U.S. citizenship and future endeavors.

"I fell in love with the United States from the get-go," asserted Sarro, "I loved the country, the people, the lifestyle... and was ready for a new adventure."

Sarro returned to America the following summer for a professional internship and soon landed a job at Philip Morris, where she met her late husband and launched a successful career in public relations. Within a few years, the couple settled in Pompton Lakes, New Jersey – and Sarro has remained there ever since. At 70 years of age, she's still enamored by the vibrant, picturesque suburb, as well as its community hospital.

The longtime Passaic County resident has always valued Chilton Medical Center, frequenting the hospital for surgical procedures, health screenings and other medical needs. But her appreciation grew exponentially in 2013, when a routine mammogram at Chilton's Breast Center revealed a tiny abnormality. In fact, she credits the hospital's state-of-the-art 3D mammography, as well as its skilled physicians and staff, with detecting her early-stage breast cancer and ultimately saving her life. "The mass was so small that I might not have been diagnosed so quickly if not for that technology," she said.

Following surgical treatment, Sarro relied on Chilton for seven weeks of radiation therapy. "Everyone was wonderful," she added, emphasizing her gratitude for Chilton's leading edge services along with its "homey feel" and compassionate, personalized care.

Over the last eight years, Sarro has donated generously to Chilton Medical Center, including gifts in honor of her caregivers and a recent major gift to support important hospital initiatives. Additionally, she is a member of the Foundation's Legacy Circle, which recognizes individuals who support the hospital through estate planning. Sarro has designated Chilton in her will, along with other charities that are close to her heart.

"I'm fortunate to be in a healthy financial situation and enjoy sharing it," she stated. "Chilton has grown and changed so much over the years; I feel proud to contribute. I want to ensure that we have a good hospital in my neighborhood... and that it's there forever."

Gift of Note

All in the Family

Chilton Pharmacist Memorialized with Honorary Gift

Family often brings the greatest joys in life. That may be why the late Walter A. Markley II is keenly remembered for his radiant, charismatic smile. He probably considered himself the luckiest man in the world, because this longtime pharmacist and Morris County resident didn't have just one family to cherish... he had two.

In addition to his beloved wife, Diane, his three sons and five grandchildren, Walter found a second family at Chilton Medical Center, where he worked the Pharmacy's evening shift for 30 years. By all accounts, he was deeply devoted to the hospital, his patients and colleagues – often regarded as a friend and mentor. So it seems only fitting that the Markley family chose to honor Walter's generous heart with a generous donation to the new Children's Center at Chilton.

"My father's death was a shock to all of us, but our family takes great comfort in supporting the charity he cared about most," asserted his eldest son, Brian Markley. "He loved Chilton and he loved kids, so I'm certain he would be very proud."

Raised in Dumont, New Jersey, Walter Markley discovered his passion for health care at an early age. In fact, his professional pursuits emerged as a teenager, when he was hired by a local pharmacy to deliver medication to area residents. According to one of his co-workers, the high school job inspired Walter's "calling," leading him to Rutgers University where he earned his registered pharmacist certification in 1974.

After beginning his career in Newark, Walter secured a part-time position at Chilton – and worked two jobs until the perfect opportunity came along in 1983. That's when he stepped into a full-time role at Chilton, operating the Pharmacy at night so he could be with his children during the day. "He was a great dad," said Brian. "He worked a lot, but moved our family to Pompton Plains so he could spend his dinner hour at home."

At Chilton, Walter quickly earned the respect and admiration of his peers, who describe him as diligent, meticulous and kind. "He knew everyone at the hospital, from the surgeons to the custodians," noted Brian. At one time, people referred to him as the "Mayor of Chilton," because Walter established relationships with all of his colleagues and many patients, too. "He was a guy who really enjoyed meeting people, getting to know them and caring about them," his son added. "That's what made him an exceptional pharmacist, and part of the fabric of the institution."

As a testament to his work ethic and accomplishments, Walter was named Chilton Medical Center's very first "Employee of the Year" in 2002. His children would beam with pride when they visited their father at work, and saw Walter's picture hanging on the wall. According to his son, Dr. Jonathan Markley, the young men viewed him as a tremendous role model who led by example – and taught them to make a difference in the world. One of Walter's sons became an attorney and two practice medicine, proudly perpetuating their father's legacy. In fact, you can often find Dr. Daniel Markley in Chilton's Critical Care Unit, healing patients and compassionately helping those in need. Just like his Dad.

While his life on earth has passed, Walter Markley will have an everlasting presence at Chilton Medical Center – through the stories and memories shared by his co-workers, a new generation of Markley physicians and the countless lives he touched over the course of his 66 years.

In recognition of the Markleys' philanthropic generosity and Walter's inspiring service, the Chilton Pharmacy has been named in his honor.

"Walter would have loved it," stated Chilton pharmacist Sushil Jain. "This was Walter's second home, and he was part of our family."

Heart of Gold

Former Pompton Plains resident bequeathes $2.2 million to Chilton

Sonia and Harold Neill

The late Sonia Neill embraced life with a spirit of adventure – and a heart of gold. She and her husband, Harold, trekked across the United States in a camper, explored the tropical beaches of Tahiti and toured their way through Europe. Yet, according to her loved ones, the place that Sonia treasured most was her “country” home in Pompton Plains, where she resided for 30 years. As it turns out, she traveled the world but never lost sight of her own community and her community hospital.

According to her wishes, Chilton Medical Center received a $2.2 million bequest to benefit enhancements for the Chilton Collins Pavilion, which houses the medical center’s Cancer Center and Breast Center. The gift, both extraordinary and unexpected, was donated quietly but speaks volumes about this thoughtful, compassionate visionary who valued the importance of community health care.

As the only daughter of German immigrants, Sonia spent much of her childhood in Guttenberg, New Jersey, where her parents owned and operated an embroidery factory. Perhaps it was those roots that instilled her strong values and commitment to family. For it was there, in a cozy, neighborhood cafe, that Sonia established a lifetime friendship with the proprietor and her youngest son, Brian Montmore. Sonia and her husband did not have children of their own, but shared their love with Brian, whom they treated as an “adopted son.”

In the early 1960’s, Sonia and Harold Neill moved to Pompton Plains, where they bought a charming little house with a white picket fence. They lived modestly, but generously – welcoming Brian to visit often and spend summers in their lakeside community. Brian fondly recalls boating along the Pequannock, flying kites attached to fishing poles and shopping around town with “Aunt Sonny.” Early on, Brian recognized Sonia’s charitable nature through her desire to help others, whether she was driving an elderly neighbor to a doctor’s appointment or finding a home for a stray pet.

“Aunt Sonny was extremely kind,” he asserted. “She cared about people, especially children, and also loved animals. She believed in volunteering and giving back to the community.”

Over the years, Sonia also developed a strong connection to Chilton Medical Center. According to Brian, it was her hospital of choice when she needed surgery, emergency care or other health services. Somewhere along the way, Chilton secured a special place in Sonia’s heart.

Even after she and Harold retired to Florida, Sonia asked about her community hospital and her house by the lake. “She liked to hear all the hospital news and was excited to learn that my grandsons were born there,” noted Brian. “She probably spent her happiest days in Pompton Plains.”

In 2013, Sonia Neill passed away. It wasn’t until then that Chilton Medical Center learned of her bequest to the hospital’s Collins Pavilion – and the magnitude of her philanthropy. Most of Sonia’s estate was left to her favorite charities. Unfortunately, the Chilton Medical Center Foundation did not have the opportunity to thank Sonia personally for her incredible gift. However, as a gesture of gratitude, the Foundation invited her dear friends and loved ones – the Montmore family – to the hospital in July for a celebration to recognize Sonia’s benevolence.

“Chilton Medical Center Foundation is deeply grateful to Sonia Neill for considering the hospital in her estate planning and recognizing Chilton’s vital role in the community,” noted Joan Beloff, Chief Development Officer. “Her foresight and selfless generosity will support many programs and services that benefit patients in our Cancer Center and Breast Center, and will impact the health of area residents for generations to come.”

Chilton Medical Center Foundation recently held a celebration to commemorate the generosity of Sonia Neill and invited her closest friends, Vicki and Brian Montmore (center). They are joined by Eric Leuthold, manager, Radiology Services, Chilton Medical Center; Gina Carro, manager, Oncology Service Line, Atlantic Health System; Lydia Nadeau, director, Oncology Service Line, Atlantic Health System; Dr. Michael Kane, Atlantic Medical Oncology.

Legacy Society Changes its Name!

“I know I won’t see the benefit of my gift in this lifetime, but I feel a responsibility to pay it forward and ensure future generations have the same opportunity for excellent health care that I was fortunate enough to have.”

– Janet Shapiro, Wayne resident

Through a planned gift, you can create a legacy of gratitude and extend your impact beyond your lifetime.

We are proud to announce the name change of our legacy society, formerly called the New Century Society, to Chilton Medical Center Legacy Circle. We invite you to join others whose philanthropy will endure through a gift they have planned in their estate.

Through planned gifts, such as bequests or other deferred gifts, our Legacy Circle members have ensured that our community hospital continues to be supported in their name long after they’re gone. The Chilton Medical Center Legacy Circle is one of the ways the Foundation expresses its gratitude for your foresight and generosity.

Benefits still include:

- Invitations to the annual Chilton Medical Center Legacy Circle luncheon and informative sessions.
- Recognition as a Legacy Circle member in the Foundation’s publications.
- Personal consultations with gift planning specialists retained by the hospital.
- The tax and investment benefits that often result from gift planning.
- The personal satisfaction of knowing you are helping to preserve the quality health care provided by Chilton Medical Center for future generations.

Legacy gifts are popular among our donors because they provide a sense of control and allow donors to give back without interrupting cash-flow. By simply letting us know about your “intention” to leave a legacy gift, you will be enrolled in our Legacy Circle and listed in our next Foundation Focus newsletter.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Mary Ellen Loranger, Director of Development in the Foundation Office at 973-831-5363. Thank you, in advance, for making this important investment in health care for our community and for being a part of this special group of visionaries. Because of YOU...Chilton will stand strong for years to come.

What's New at Chilton?

World Renowned Physicians Join Cancer Center

Chilton's Cancer Center has once again raised the bar in cancer care, welcoming internationally recognized radiation oncologists to its highly skilled medical team. James R. Wong, MD, Mona Karim, MD, Yana Pavel Goldberg, MD and Todd Carpenter, MD are trained in all subspecialties related to cancer and are leaders in their field. In fact, Dr. Wong is acclaimed for developing image-guided radiation therapy (IGRT) – one of the most significant breakthroughs for precisely targeting and treating tumors.

Todd Carpenter, MD, Yana Pavel Goldberg, MD, James R. Wong, MD, Mona Karim, MD

The group's expertise is now available to patients at Chilton, along with the latest diagnostic and cancer-fighting innovations, including IGRT, 3-D treatment planning systems and simulators, Intensity Modulated Radiotherapy (IMRT), and a state-of-the-art linear accelerator with "RapidArc Rotational Radiation Therapy." The radiation oncologists work collaboratively with Chilton physicians, oncology-trained nurses and other specialists to develop personalized treatment plans for each patient while providing our community with a full continuum of centralized, cutting edge cancer services. Furthermore, Chilton is affiliated with Atlantic Health System's Carol G. Simon Cancer Center, based at Overlook and Morristown Medical Centers, which offers seamless access to additional experts, clinical trials and advanced care for patients with rare or complex cancers.

Healing with Nature

Chilton's Total Joint Center recently completed its new Healing Garden, to be unveiled in 2016, which was generously funded by Mimi and Eddie Feliciano of Kinnelon and other community donors. Reflecting the hospital's holistic approach to care, this beautiful outdoor oasis offers a serene, peaceful environment for orthopedic patients to advance their recovery, relax and socialize with family and friends.

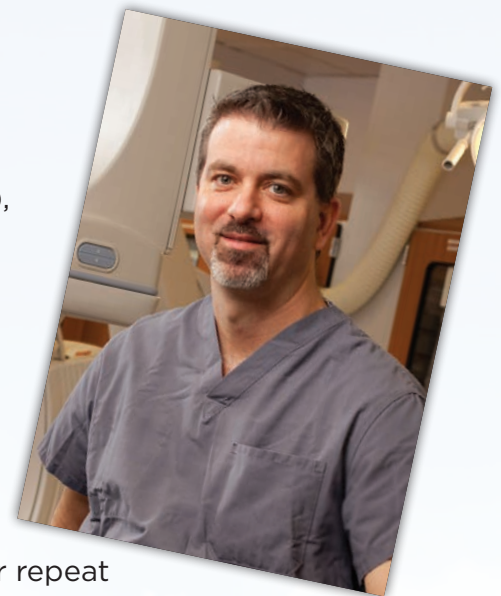

The unique space embraces the healing effects of nature, as studies confirm that outdoor gardens can have a positive impact on one's physiological, mental and emotional well-being. The beautifully designed landscapes are proven to alleviate stress and pain while boosting the immune system, reducing post-operative complications and shortening hospital stays. Chilton's Healing Garden will officially open in 2016, providing the perfect complement to the Total Joint Center's comprehensive, award-winning patient care.

Chilton Pioneers New Therapy for Peripheral Artery Disease

Chilton Medical Center is among the first hospitals in New Jersey to offer a promising new treatment for peripheral artery disease (PAD), a dangerous condition that occurs when fatty deposits accumulate inside the arteries and restrict blood flow. While many cases are successfully managed with exercise, lifestyle modification and medication, others require interventional therapy to clear the blockage mechanically.

Chilton physicians recently pioneered the latest breakthrough in PAD care, drug-coated balloons, which open constricted arteries and deliver medication to the artery walls. Early results suggest that this technique is highly effective, reducing the need for repeat procedures while relieving symptoms and lowering the patient's risk for amputation, heart attack, stroke and other life-threatening complications. According to interventional cardiologist Lawrence Blitz, MD, "Chilton has one more option to help individuals control their disease and lead a healthier life."

Heart Success Program Improves Cardiac Care

Chilton Medical Center recently introduced a "Heart Success" program to provide specialized care for patients with advanced heart failure, cardiomyopathies and pulmonary hypertension. Participants are thoroughly assessed by a team of clinicians, including registered nurses, nurse practitioners, dietitians and pharmacists, who develop a customized treatment plan for patients and their families. A new component of Chilton's network of heart services, the "Heart Success" program incorporates intensive education on self-care and telemanagement, while providing access to cutting edge research, diagnostic testing, interventional therapy, cardiac rehabilitation, integrative medicine, and transplant evaluation. The goal is to help heart patients prevent hospitalizations while improving their health and well-being.

Chilton Introduces Specialty Suites at Cedar Crest

Last September, Cedar Crest retirement village celebrated the grand opening of Chilton Medical Center Specialty Care Suite, which is conveniently located on its Pompton Plains campus. Introducing a groundbreaking approach to health care delivery, the new, beautifully appointed suites bring specialty medical services right to the residents' doorstep – allowing them to visit physicians "at home" rather than traveling to their offices. This is a tremendous benefit to many Cedar Crest residents burdened by mobility issues, lack of transportation or other obstacles that may cause unnecessary stress or missed medical appointments.

In partnership with the senior living community, Chilton Medical Center Specialty Care Suite is staffed by experienced Chilton physicians representing the following specialties: cardiology, vascular medicine, medical oncology, urogynecology, neurology, orthopedics, gastroenterology and endocrinology.

New Board Member Spotlight

Arthur Calise, MD is currently the Chairman of Emergency Medicine and the Director of Occupational Medicine for Chilton. Art and his wife Cathy have four children and live in Lopatcong, New Jersey. Dr. Calise is on the Medical Oversight Board for Atlantic Ambulance and has 20 years of experience in his fields. He graduated from Nova Southeastern University in 1992 and is currently seeking his MBA from Johns Hopkins University.

Cherise Dyal, MD and her husband, Norman Coleburn, MD, live in Franklin Lakes with their three children. Dr. Dyal received her BA from Harvard University in Biology and Psychology and Social Relations and her Medical Degree from Yale University School of Medicine. She completed her Residency in Orthopedic Surgery at Columbia and her Fellowship training at Hospital for Special Surgery. Her Orthopedic Surgery practice is at Advanced Orthopaedic Associates in Wayne. She is also Medical Director of Synergy Fitness and Wellness. Cherise has been on staff at Chilton since 2000.

Randy Hagen, DHSc, FACMPE, CASC, ACHE is an active supporter of the Chilton Medical Center Foundation. Randy received his Doctorate in Health Sciences with a concentration in Leadership and Organizational Behavior from A. T. Still University. He recently left his position with Sheridan Healthcare overseeing 500+ anesthesia providers in the NJ market and started a health care consulting company helping guide organizations through the changing healthcare landscape. He has over 17 years of experience in the industry. Randy and his wife Jolee currently reside in Manahawkin with their four children.

Margaret Nolan is a long-time resident of Wayne and has devoted her entire professional career to the health care industry. Margaret received her B.S.N. from Bloomfield College and holds a New Jersey Nursing Home Administrators License. She has extensive clinical, management, and directorial experience in both acute and post-acute care settings, at all government levels. Margaret is currently Vice President of Clinical Program Development at Care One, with an expanded focus on ensuring quality care at the 23 Post-Acute providers in their New Jersey Market. She is the Chairperson of the Regional Ethics Committee, working closely with the NJ Office of the Ombudsman for the Institutionalized Elderly. An active member of the local community, Margaret also served as President of the Wayne AM Rotary and currently is a Board Member for the Edward Sisco Senior Citizen Village in Wayne.

Employees Give Back

Year after year, employees of Chilton Medical Center demonstrate their commitment to the hospital and support the needs of the patients and families they serve through the Employee Giving Campaign. Raising over $40,000 annually, staff gifts both large and small make a meaningful impact on the lives of so many people.

Anna DeLuca, Chilton's Manager of Patient Experience & Volunteers, who has been contributing to the Campaign for eight consecutive years, believes that it's important for all employees to participate in the initiative. "I feel strongly that everyone can positively impact their organization even if it's with a small monetary contribution," says DeLuca.

Employee giving also helps the hospital to successfully raise funds from the community, as it inspires donors to support a cause that has strong internal support. DeLuca says, "Each of us is a stakeholder in the viability of Chilton's success."

Support from the Employee Campaign directly benefits the great work the staff already does at Chilton and allows their gifts to reach even further. Each year, employee donations support everything from new technology and equipment to various programs and educational initiatives to enhance patient care. Employees have the option of restricting their gifts to a specific department or leaving their donation unrestricted to help meet the most urgent needs of the hospital.

DeLuca encourages those who are not currently participating to do so. "Through our donations, we are investing in the future of Chilton. Every little bit counts towards Chilton's improvement."

Our Community Cares

Local Businessman Donates Six Figure Gift to Pediatric Clinic

A $200,000 gift was made recently by a local businessman and longtime Wayne resident to our Pediatric Clinic. The donor, who wishes to remain anonymous, provided funding to help expand the Clinic's hours and create a "Special Needs Fund" which will help Clinic patients cover additional costs they may face during treatment such as those related to medication, childcare issues or transportation needs.

"This leadership gift is life-changing for the Clinic, its staff and patients who have come to rely on the comprehensive care it provides," says Pediatric Physician Javier Lugo, MD, who oversees the Clinic. "We are so grateful for this incredible display of generosity which will have tremendous impact for years to come."

The Pediatric Clinic is a full-service health clinic that provides health care for the community, regardless of insurance status or the ability to pay. Located at 242 West Parkway in the Atlantic Rehabilitation building about a mile from the main hospital, the Clinic offers high quality, primary pediatric and medical care to patients while producing measurable, long-term improvements in healthy behaviors, healthy outcomes and better quality of life. Last year, the Clinic provided care for over 2,500 patients of culturally diverse backgrounds from Chilton's service area of Morris, Essex, Sussex, Passaic, and Bergen counties.

Music Heals

The Tones, a Healing Arts music therapy group for children within the Autism spectrum disorders, enjoyed its second session at Chilton Medical Center this past summer. Made possible with a gift from local residents and longtime Chilton donors Angelo and Lonny Badalamenti, this program offered children ages 6-10 an opportunity for communication and socialization through music improvisation and movement. Led by a board certified music therapist, children and caregivers together create music with instruments, sing songs, and move with parachutes and scarves.

For more information about The Tones and other music therapy programs, visit atlanticealth.org/healingarts, email healingarts@atlanticealth.org or call 973-660-3533.

Comfort for Cancer Patients

Chilton donor and grateful patient Janet Shapiro saw what her mother went through when diagnosed and treated for cancer. Wanting to offer some warmth and comfort to patients as they go through treatment, Janet knitted shawls for patients of Chilton's Cancer Center. "As I knit, I pray for renewed good health for the patients at Chilton, because good health is the most fundamental gift of all," says Janet.

Ovarian Cancer Screening Trial comes to Chilton

The Ralph M. Cestone Foundation awarded a $45,000 grant over three years to launch a MD Anderson Ovarian Cancer Screening Trial at Chilton Medical Center, joining the three other Atlantic Health System facilities in offering the trial to women in the community. Hard to diagnose and referred to as the "silent cancer," ovarian cancer is often discovered late and as a result has a high fatality rate. The goal of the study is to find a reliable ovarian cancer screening test for women which will contribute to early detection and improve survival rates.

Our Community Cares

Women's Vision for Health Care Council

In September, the Foundation officially launched the Women's Vision for Health Care Council. The Council objective is to give women a voice to help shape how health care is delivered to families in our community, and raise awareness and inspire community philanthropy to advance exceptional health care for patients at Chilton Medical Center. Each member of the Council must commit to a two-year gift of $1,000 per year, which will support a health initiative selected by the group.

As a regional health care leader, it is important to inform, empower and support women who are often the primary health care decision makers for families, giving them the necessary tools to care for themselves and their loved ones. The Women's Vision for Health Care Council at Chilton Medical Center will influence the services and care the hospital provides the community in the areas of cancer, cardiac health, pediatrics, and women's health, among others.

The Council will meet on a quarterly basis for educational sessions with various hospital service lines to learn more about high priority initiatives and needs. These presentations will help guide the Council to make decisions regarding funding initiatives. After the third meeting, the Council members will vote on the area for which they would like to designate their funds. The selected recipient will be invited back to the fourth and final meeting of the year for a celebratory luncheon and check presentation.

The Women's Vision for Health Care Council will grow to be an influential group at Chilton Medical Center. While expanding their role as health care decision makers at home, members will also help impact the care that Chilton delivers to our community.

If you are interested in joining the 2016-2017 Council, please contact the Foundation Office at 973-831-5165.

Auxiliary donations exceed the $4.5 million mark for Chilton

The Chilton Medical Center Auxiliary has raised a total of $4.5 million for Chilton since inception, making this powerful group of women the largest donor in the hospital's history. From their signature fundraising events, which include a Queen's Tea, Barn Theatre Night, Casino Night, and Give & Receive Basket Raffle, to their Chilton traditions including the Tree of Lights and the Brick Walk, the hospital has come to rely on the vital philanthropic support the Auxiliary provides. Funds raised by this dedicated group have helped the hospital meet many of its high priority initiatives and funding needs.

"The Auxiliary women donate countless volunteer hours throughout the year," says Auxiliary president Louisa Barresi. "They are truly committed to helping make Chilton the best hospital it can be for our community."

This year, the Auxiliary has pledged $65,000 towards the new Children's Center at Chilton, knowing the importance of providing expert pediatric care to our community. "We are thrilled to be part of the new Children's Center project as many of our children and grandchildren have come here for their care. The Center will only enhance the care we offer the families in our area," says Barresi.

Coverys Helps Kids Cope

After a long association with Chilton Medical Center, Coverys has made a significant gift to help fund a Creative Arts Therapy Program in the Pediatric Emergency Department. This program will be a vital part of the hospital's new Children's Center.

"Emergency rooms can be scary and stressful for both parent and child. Coverys is pleased to support Chilton's expansion of their art therapy program and the use of coping kits, which will help reduce stress so that the parent and child can focus on the child's health," said Michael Kubik, Senior Vice President of Marketing for Coverys.

Grant funds will be used to cover the purchase of art supplies, musical instruments, and "Coping Kits" for pediatric patients.

Kids Helping Chilton

Our "Kids Helping Chilton" program kicked off this year with a fundraising effort by a Wayne middle school. The Service Club of Schuyler-Colfax collected coloring books, crayons, puzzles and other fun activities for the children at Chilton's Pediatric Clinic. Teacher and Club Leader, Noel Anderson, visited the Foundation at the end of the school year to deliver a beautiful basket. Currently, many area schools have joined the program including Hillview Elementary, Aaron Decker School, Pompton Lakes High School, Walter T. Bergen Middle School and West Milford Township High School.

Grant Helps Chilton Implement Nursing Certification Program

Chilton Medical Center Foundation received a first time grant of $50,000 from the George Link Jr. Foundation to implement a Nursing Certification program. As a NICHE site, Chilton Medical Center seeks philanthropic support to continually expand and improve the patient-centered care it delivers to its seniors. Research shows that nurses should be educated and certified in gerontological nursing care, to provide the best possible care to older patients. However, less than one percent of our nurses are currently certified in gerontology nursing. Over the next several years, Chilton's goal is to certify 25 nurses in this discipline. "The funds will allow us to implement this certification program and eventually deliver a "Geriatric Resource Nurse" (GRN) model of care here at Chilton," says Carnette Smith, RN, MSN Clinical Educator, NICHE Coordinator.

Driven to Give

On Monday, October 26, Lincoln of Wayne held an event to benefit the Children's Center Major Gift Initiative at Chilton. For every person who test drove a car, Lincoln donated $20 to the Children's Center. In all, nearly 300 people test drove the vehicles and $7,980 was donated to the Children's Center.

During the event, attendees were also able to paint a pumpkin for $5, the funds for which went to the Children's Center. Our "artists" had the option of donating the pumpkin back to the hospital for admitted patients, or to keep it for their own personal pumpkin collection. Children from Building Blocks, Chilton's on-site community daycare facility, painted more than 25 pumpkins, all of which were generously donated to the hospital.

Wayne Lincoln presents Chilton Medical Center Foundation with the proceeds from the Driven to Give event to support the Children's Center Major Gift Initiative.

Our Community Cares

Boutique for Breast Cancer Awareness

Robin's Closet Boutique of Boonton kicked off Breast Cancer Awareness month last October with an evening of "Fun 'n Fashion" to honor special women in our lives. Women of all ages were invited for a night of wine and cheese and to view the latest fall styles. Proceeds totaling $500 benefited the Breast Center at Chilton Medical Center.

Life Smile Dentistry Supports PINK at Chilton

Special thanks to Dr. Gregory DeVries and Dr. Vanessa Lee of Life Smile Dentistry in Wayne! The doctors recently presented a check for over $500 to Joan Beloff, Chief Development Officer of the Chilton Medical Center Foundation. As part of Chilton's Paint the Towns Pink fundraiser for breast cancer awareness, the doctors donated 10% of new patient revenue to The Breast Center.

Paint the Towns Pink

2015 marked the 7th annual Paint the Towns Pink campaign to benefit the Breast Center at Chilton. In addition to the 17 restaurants who participated as sponsors, several new events were added to the Pink roster this year.

On Thursday, October 8, customers at Frank's Pizza of Pompton Lakes, Frank's Pizza of Oakland and Santina's Pizza of Riverdale were offered one free plain pizza pie, and in return, were asked that they donate an equal value or greater to the Chilton Breast Center. Over $1,000 was raised from this one-day pizza party!

On Wednesday, October 14 and Tuesday, October 20, Moe's Southwest Grill and Wendy's, respectively, hosted events for The Breast Center. During each specific day, 15% of the restaurants' proceeds benefited The Breast Center, with over $4,000 contributed in total. Also, Rosemary and Sage hosted a special price-fix dinner in October that raised nearly $200.

Several businesses conducted month-long fundraising initiatives for Pink. Moxie Blowdry Bar of Wayne and Layers Salon of Pompton Plains beautified their clients with Pink hair extensions for the month of October. In all, 44 people received extensions and over $600 was raised for the Breast Center. Spuntino Wine Bar in Clifton donated $1 for every glass of Chateau Pas Du Cerf Rose that sold during the month of October, and donated a total of $200 through their drink special.

Wines of the World

The Chilton Medical Center Foundation held its eleventh annual wine tasting fundraiser, "Wines and Spirits of the World" at Preakness Hills Country Club in Wayne on Friday, April 24. The event grossed nearly $130,000 to support the medical center's initiative to further enhance the state-of-the-art care and services available to the Chilton community. A portion of the funds will support the Children's Center.

Golf Classic

It was a wonderful day on the links at the 2015 Chilton Medical Center Foundation Golf Classic. Though originally scheduled for Monday, June 15, the Outing was postponed until June 22 due to inclement weather. Even with the unexpected date change, 135 golfers were able to join us at Preakness Hills Country Club and the Foundation exceeded its fundraising goal, with over $180,000 raised for the hospital. Thank you to all of our 2015 event sponsors and golfers!

Gloria and Rocco Barbieri, Donna Gragnolati and Brian A. Gragnolati, FACHE, President and CEO of Atlantic Health System, Matthew and Stephanie Sordoni

Annual Chilton Gala

Chilton's 2015 "Crystal Ball" Gala was held on Saturday, November 14 at The Venetian in Garfield, NJ. This year's event broke Foundation records, with over $390,000 raised and 450 guests in attendance. Two long-time philanthropic supporters of the hospital, Gloria and Rocco Barbieri and Sordoni Construction, were the 2015 Gala Honorees. The Barbieris not only support Chilton through their charitable endowments, but their passion for important causes is evident in the time they so readily devote to Chilton and other organizations. Sordoni Construction has provided tremendous support to Chilton Medical Center and is consistently dedicated to helping the community. For more information on the Gala and to view event photos, please visit chiltongala.org.
