A Message from Dr. Jan Schwarz-Miller, Chief Medical and Academic Officer, Atlantic Health System

The more you know, the more you can focus on the actions you can take to protect yourself and your family. Please share this video with your loved ones. By taking certain steps right now, such as limiting contact with others, we can all work toward slowing the spread of COVID-19. This will help us best manage vital resources and ensure the right care is available to those who need it most, particularly older adults and those with severe underlying chronic medical conditions.
